

WESTERLY

In the superior court at Kingston before Judge Baker and a jury the case of state, Thomas E. Brown, defendant, and Frank Jackson, was heard and submitted to the jury Wednesday morning. There are two complaints against Jackson, one for driving an automobile while intoxicated and the other for reckless driving.

The cases were tried in the district court last April and Jackson was found guilty and fined $150 and sentenced to 15 days in the Providence county court house. He took an appeal to the superior court. The state witnesses were Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown, Dr. M. H. Scanlon, Thomas J. Shortle, of Providence, agent for the Goodyear Tire Co., Officers George Champlin and Donald Ferguson of Westerly police force and Robert Kersall, a former police officer in Westerly.

They testified in substance that Jackson was intoxicated when arrested on the afternoon of April 25th, 1922, at 5:15 o'clock.

Everett Barnes, teller in the Washington Trust Co., testifying for the defense, said that Jackson called at the bank late that afternoon and drew out a considerable sum of money. He was sober at that time and Barnes, otherwise he would have felt that he had any amount of money.

Albert Sylvia who conducts a shoe repairing store on West Broad street testified that Jackson called at his place that afternoon, that he was perfectly sober and had come to pay his dues in a local organization in which the two are affiliated. Harris Taylor of Potter Hill said that he met Jackson at about five o'clock on the afternoon in question and Jackson told him that he had to go to Potter Hill and that something was wrong with his (Jackson's) car. Harris said that he loaned his car to Jackson who he thought was perfectly sober and fit to operate a car.

Leonard Hiccox who conducts a garage on railroad avenue said that Jackson called at his place of business at five o'clock and requested him to make some repairs on the latter's car and Hiccox agreed to go with him. He said that Jackson was perfectly sober.

The jury took the case at the opening of court Wednesday morning, all the evidence having been submitted the day before and they were out for four and one-half hours. When they returned the foreman announced that they could not agree upon a verdict. It is understood that they stood eight to acquit and four for conviction. Colin Macleod, assistant attorney general, appeared for the state and attorneys John J. Dunn and Clarence E. Roche appeared for the defendant.

Edward J. Fenslow, Jr., of New York city and Watch Hill, R. I., is visiting relatives and friends in town.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Higginbotham of West Broad street are spending a few days in New York city.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Tucker of New Haven, Conn., are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. Perry Clarke of West Broad street.

Mr. and Mrs. Moore who is attending school in Worcester, Mass., is spending Thanksgiving holiday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George C. Moore.

Dr. D. W. Stanton of Grove avenue is visiting in Boston, Mass.

George M. Porter, of Portsmouth, New York is visiting over the holidays at his home on Williams street.

Dr. Robert Farnham and family of Spruce street motored to Boston yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Roche are spending Thanksgiving with his brother Arthur C. Roche of Boston.

A horse belonging to Sam Silver of the Rialto farm on East avenue, dropped dead Wednesday morning on Liberty street.

Former Police Patrolman Harry Bricker of Pawtucket and Officer Thomas O'Connell of Stonington raided the stores of the Greek American Fruit Co. and Albert Chapman Tuesday evening at about 7 o'clock and found in these places several punch boards and in one of the stores various slot machines. Officers Bricker and O'Connell are constables in the town of Stonington.

Rev. Byron U. Hatfield was the speaker at the special Thanksgiving services held Wednesday evening at the Calvary Baptist church on Elm street.

Miss Ruth Scanlon a student at Elmhurst, in Providence, is visiting at the home of her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Michael H. Scanlon on High street.

The Western Hotel on Elm street is to have a dinner meeting at the next meeting which will be held next Monday Charles F. Fisher of Akron, Ohio, who has just completed city plan for that city, will be the guest.

The people of Westerly are interested in a city plan and it is expected that a large crowd will be present to hear of these plans.

The H. T. S. a society in the Westerly High school held their annual banquet and dance at the Rhode Island Hotel on Broad street, Wednesday evening. Music was furnished by Main's Melody Makers of Narragansett Pier.

STONINGTON

The death of Mrs. Katherine (Colbert) Ryan, occurred at her late home in Stonington Wednesday afternoon, after a brief illness. She was the wife of John H. Ryan of Stonington, and had been a resident here for many years. She was of a happy disposition and devoted to her family. She was a woman who made many friends. She is survived by two sons, Charles Ryan of Stonington, and W. Ryan of New York, besides her husband, John H. Ryan.

Tuesday morning at 8 o'clock the marriage of Miss Catherine Lailey, of Pawtucket, Pa., and James Smith of Middletown took place at St. Mary's Catholic church at Stonington. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. E. O'Brien.

The couple were attended by Miss Katherine Walsh of Pawtucket, Pa., and John Smith, brother of the groom, was best man.

After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served by Mrs. Henry Hayn at her home on Willow street. The young couple received the best wishes of their many friends. The bride received many gifts. They will reside on Church street, Stonington. The groom is employed in Westerly.

Federal services for Edward P. Teed were held Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at Calvary Episcopal church. Rev. W. F. Williams, rector, officiated. The services were most impressive and showed the high esteem which Chief Teed was held in the community.

There was a delegation from Asylum lodge, No. 57, A. F. & A. M., and the secretary of the State Firemen's Association, C. Hanford, delegates from New London fire departments and Joseph Hemstead, ex-chief of the Groton fire department, attended the funeral. There was a large delegation from Stonington fire department, 90 men, who marched to the cemetery.

The active bearers were Charles McCourt, Fred Fairbrother, Irving Melvin, Charles Staplin. The honorary bearers were Charles Chisham, Robert Edgar, James McCourt, William P. Bindosa, Harry Chesbro and Charles Gray. Interment was in Stonington cemetery.

The flags were at half-mast on all the buildings and residences in the borough. The Atwood Machine Co.'s plant closed the plant for the afternoon at 2 o'clock and the stores closed during the hour of the funeral services out of respect for their late chief of the fire department.

The borough school grammar grades and the students of the high school have a set of 300 stereoscopic slides which will be used in their work as this includes nearly all the subjects taught in the school. They are working in order to secure a complete set of 300 slides.

The Arion hall has been opened to the basketball team of the high school as the velvet mill athletic association have loaned the use of it to the high school team.

William F. Lucker, one of Stonington's young men, who is a sophomore at the Rhode Island State college, has made a record for himself. He was high man in his class and maintained an average of 100 per cent in advanced mathematics.

money was performed by Rev. W. E. O'Brien.

The couple were attended by Miss Katherine Walsh of Pawtucket, Pa., and John Smith, brother of the groom, was best man.

After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served by Mrs. Henry Hayn at her home on Willow street. The young couple received the best wishes of their many friends. The bride received many gifts. They will reside on Church street, Stonington. The groom is employed in Westerly.

Federal services for Edward P. Teed were held Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at Calvary Episcopal church. Rev. W. F. Williams, rector, officiated. The services were most impressive and showed the high esteem which Chief Teed was held in the community.

There was a delegation from Asylum lodge, No. 57, A. F. & A. M., and the secretary of the State Firemen's Association, C. Hanford, delegates from New London fire departments and Joseph Hemstead, ex-chief of the Groton fire department, attended the funeral. There was a large delegation from Stonington fire department, 90 men, who marched to the cemetery.

The active bearers were Charles McCourt, Fred Fairbrother, Irving Melvin, Charles Staplin. The honorary bearers were Charles Chisham, Robert Edgar, James McCourt, William P. Bindosa, Harry Chesbro and Charles Gray. Interment was in Stonington cemetery.

The flags were at half-mast on all the buildings and residences in the borough. The Atwood Machine Co.'s plant closed the plant for the afternoon at 2 o'clock and the stores closed during the hour of the funeral services out of respect for their late chief of the fire department.

The borough school grammar grades and the students of the high school have a set of 300 stereoscopic slides which will be used in their work as this includes nearly all the subjects taught in the school. They are working in order to secure a complete set of 300 slides.

The Arion hall has been opened to the basketball team of the high school as the velvet mill athletic association have loaned the use of it to the high school team.

William F. Lucker, one of Stonington's young men, who is a sophomore at the Rhode Island State college, has made a record for himself. He was high man in his class and maintained an average of 100 per cent in advanced mathematics.

Frank Weeks, Sr., Carl and Mrs. Bertha Weeks and friends of Putnam are spending a few days at the Weeks cottage at Lord's Point.

Augustus C. Treat of New Jersey has sold to Henry W. Branch a lot at the corner of Langworthy avenue and Hopkins street, Lord's Point. The new owner will erect a 5-room bungalow soon.

Mr. and Mrs. David R. Kinney have returned to Norwich Town for the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Snell have moved from the Pith cottage on Hill avenue to the York bungalow, Shacola on Ashworth avenue, Lord's Point.

Thomas C. O'Connell, who has served as patrolman for the borough, will conclude his duties today (Thursday) and James H. Walsh, who has been newly appointed will begin his duties as patrolman Dec. 5.

The Thanksgiving service, being a union service of the Congregational church and the Baptist church was held at the latter church Wednesday evening.

An excellent program was rendered by the choir. The sermon was given by Rev. H. M. Thompson, pastor of the Baptist church. There was a large attendance.

Superintendent of Schools W. E. Sawyer will entertain as Thanksgiving guests, Mrs. George W. Avery of Franklin, Conn., Mrs. Margaret Lees, of San Francisco, Cal., Miss Alice Benjamin of Philadelphia, Pa., and Mrs. J. J. Williams of New York city.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerome S. Anderson will entertain a family party at dinner today (Thursday).

Stella Council, K. of C., gave a most successful social Wednesday evening in the Borough hall. There was a large attendance and plenty of good music.

Judge and Mrs. E. B. Hinckley will entertain Mrs. Eleanor Hinckley of Hartford Thanksgiving day.

Miss Pauline Chesebro will spend the holiday with friends in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. August O. Muller are entertaining Mr. and Mrs. Todd of New Haven.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Muller and son and Mr. and Mrs. Daniel V. Mildred of Stratford are guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Muller at their home here.

MYSTIC

The sudden death of Samuel Edgcomb occurred at the home of his daughter, Miss Alden Fish, on High street, where he was making a visit, Wednesday morning. He was about 50 years of age, could not be awakened when he was called to breakfast. The deceased was in his 53rd year and was a man of sterling qualities. He spent many years in Mystic until he retired. Then he moved to Providence with his daughter.

Mr. Edgcomb was born in Mystic May 16, 1849, and was the son of John Edgcomb and Abby Gates Edgcomb. He leaves five daughters, Mrs. Alden Fish of Mystic, Mrs. Matthias Baker, Mrs. Carl Gunderson, Mrs. Earl G. Batty and Mrs. Oscar E. Darling of Providence. He leaves ten grandchildren and one great-grandchild, one sister, Mrs. Helen Kennard of Hartford, one brother, John Edgcomb of Hartford, and whose remains were brought here Wednesday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. Interment was in Elm Grove cemetery, Mystic.

The various industries have closed their plants here over the holiday.

Mr. and Mrs. Connors of Gravel street will spend Thanksgiving day with relatives in Pawtucket, R. I.

State Superintendent of Bridges Doe of East Hadham called on C. C. Potter Wednesday.

The employees of the Robinson Silk Manufacturing company's plant will enjoy a vacation, the mill having closed Wednesday afternoon until Monday morning.

Miss Blanche Mull of Main street and Herman Edgcomb of 35 Pearl street attended the senior dance of the Williams Memorial institute at New London Wednesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Jordan of New London are guests of relatives, Charles F. Edgcomb and family, on Pearl street.

George Smith and Leon Richmond will leave here about the middle of December to spend the winter at Daytona, Fla. Mr. Smith is a physician.

OUT THIS OUT—IT IS WORTH MONEY Out this slip, enclose with 5c and mail it to Foley & Co., 2335 Sheffield Ave., Chicago, Ill., writing your name and address clearly. You will receive in return a trial package containing Foley's Kidney and Bladder Pills, for cough, colds and croup; Foley's Kidney Pills, for pains in sides and back, rheumatism, backache, kidney and bladder ailments, and Foley's Cathartic Tablets, a wholesome and thoroughly cleansing cathartic for constipation, biliousness, flatulency, and sluggish bowels. Lee & O'Connell Co.

DON'T FUSS WITH MUSTARD PLASTERS!

Musterole Works Without the Blister—Easier, Quicker

There's no fuss in mixing a mess of mustard, flour and water when you can easily relieve pain, soreness or stiffness with a little clean, white Musterole.

Musterole is made of pure oil of mustard and other helpful ingredients, combined in the form of the present white ointment. It takes the place of mustard plasters, and will not blister.

Musterole usually gives prompt relief from sore throat, tonsillitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, headache, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet, colds of the chest (it may prevent pneumonia), 35c and 65c, jars and tubes.

Better than a mustard plaster

WILL NOT BLISTER

Smith is well remembered, having served at patrolman on the Groton side.

The state tuberculosis committee are distributing Christmas seals here. Many have received them in Stonington and Mystic this week.

The wharves of the Pendleton Shipbuilding company in the rear of the Gilbert block on West Main street are being repaired.

Charles Noble of Mystic is visiting relatives in Boston over the holiday.

Nathan Bendett is confined to his home by illness.

Max Bendett was a caller in Norwich Wednesday.

Wednesday afternoon the funeral services of Miss Hazel Russell were held at 2 o'clock at her home on the New London road. Rev. Jerome Greer, pastor of the Methodist church, officiated. Interment was in Elm Grove cemetery.

Charity chapter, O. E. S., sewing society will meet Friday afternoon with Mrs. Lizzie Lamb at Noon.

The superintendent of schools of the town of Stonington has issued the following: "Dec. 3-9 is named as American Education week and a program has been suggested for each day. Dec. 6, Wednesday, is to be visiting day, and all are invited to visit the town schools on that day and inspect the teaching and care of the building throughout."

A large number of football fans from here will go to Westerly today (Thursday) to see the football teams of the Stonington High school and the Westerly Hill school play.

The new Radio club has named Elmer Branch as its president. The organization will be known as the Mystic Radio club. C. E. Paige is vice president, and Sands Fish is secretary and treasurer. A committee has been appointed to draw up a set of by-laws. The question of dues will be taken up at the next meeting. Mr. Paige was appointed to look up a place for the club to hold meetings in. The members will meet every two weeks. A special meeting will be held Tuesday evening, Dec. 5, when several matters of importance will be considered.

Thursday morning, arriving at Springfield, Ill., about 3 to lay a wreath on Lincoln's tomb.

Leave Springfield late in the evening, arriving at St. Louis at eight a. m. Friday.

Leave St. Louis Saturday evening, arriving at Baltimore at 8 a. m. Monday, leaving Baltimore Monday evening for Washington.

Leave Washington for Philadelphia, evening of December 8.

Leave Philadelphia for Chicago, the night of December 9.

The former war veteran, who delivered the fourth of a series of addresses here yesterday, spent today relaxing and seeing the sights. He leaves at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning for Springfield, Ill., where he will visit the tomb of Abraham Lincoln, and deliver a short eulogistic address. From there he will go to St. Louis, arriving Friday morning, for the fifth formal address of his series.

The Tiger's program for the day, worked out by himself, started with a visit to one of Chicago's biggest abattoirs and packing plants, Armour's and ended with a visit to the Auditorium, where as the guest of Mrs. Potter Palmer, his Chicago hostess, he heard Rimsky Korsakoff's fantasy "Siegfried's March."

"Snow Maiden," sung in French. He received an ovation when he appeared in the Potter Palmer box, which was draped with the French tri-color and the Stars and Stripes. It was a veritable spree for the Tiger, who usually retires at night.

After the first act, Edmond Coteau, French basso, sang the Marseillaise and Cyrena Van Gordon, the Star Spangled Banner.

Between abattoir and opera, Clemenceau sandwiched visits to the Chicago Art institute, and Anderson Galleries, and the Marshall Field Museum of Natural History.

Before reaching his institute, he proved his knowledge of art by picking out the prize Corot of the collection and heading straight for it, standing for several minutes in silent admiration.

Before reaching his institute, he proved his knowledge of art by picking out the prize Corot of the collection and heading straight for it, standing for several minutes in silent admiration.

The exhibit before which he stopped was a small statue of the Buddha.

"Poor Buddha," he exclaimed. "He did not tell the people he was a god. He only said he was a man. But when he died they insisted on making a god out of him."

A portrait of Edmond Manet, French artist, next attracted him.

"Isn't that just like him," he commented, "know him well. There was a man of wit. He is so real I can almost see him before me."

At the Anderson Galleries he stood long before Fromentier's painting of Arab valery.

CLEMENCEAU SPENT DAY IN REST AND SIGHT SEEING

Chicago, Nov. 29.—(By The A. P.)—Georges Clemenceau, touring the United States in an effort to forge closer bonds between this country and France, tonight dictated the following Thanksgiving message:

"Deeply touched by the kind reception granted me and the attention given to the delivery of my message, there is much to thank for."

The former war veteran, who delivered the fourth of a series of addresses here yesterday, spent today relaxing and seeing the sights. He leaves at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning for Springfield, Ill., where he will visit the tomb of Abraham Lincoln, and deliver a short eulogistic address. From there he will go to St. Louis, arriving Friday morning, for the fifth formal address of his series.

The Tiger's program for the day, worked out by himself, started with a visit to one of Chicago's biggest abattoirs and packing plants, Armour's and ended with a visit to the Auditorium, where as the guest of Mrs. Potter Palmer, his Chicago hostess, he heard Rimsky Korsakoff's fantasy "Siegfried's March."

"Snow Maiden," sung in French. He received an ovation when he appeared in the Potter Palmer box, which was draped with the French tri-color and the Stars and Stripes. It was a veritable spree for the Tiger, who usually retires at night.

After the first act, Edmond Coteau, French basso, sang the Marseillaise and Cyrena Van Gordon, the Star Spangled Banner.

Between abattoir and opera, Clemenceau sandwiched visits to the Chicago Art institute, and Anderson Galleries, and the Marshall Field Museum of Natural History.

Before reaching his institute, he proved his knowledge of art by picking out the prize Corot of the collection and heading straight for it, standing for several minutes in silent admiration.

Before reaching his institute, he proved his knowledge of art by picking out the prize Corot of the collection and heading straight for it, standing for several minutes in silent admiration.

The exhibit before which he stopped was a small statue of the Buddha.

"Poor Buddha," he exclaimed. "He did not tell the people he was a god. He only said he was a man. But when he died they insisted on making a god out of him."

A portrait of Edmond Manet, French artist, next attracted him.

"Isn't that just like him," he commented, "know him well. There was a man of wit. He is so real I can almost see him before me."

At the Anderson Galleries he stood long before Fromentier's painting of Arab valery.

"Ah, these are the Turks," he said. The Field Museum of two mounted, fighting elephants, elicited this: "When I was in Africa there was a troop—at least 45 of them—that looked me in the face just like that."

And before the skeleton of a huge whale: "Ah, there's a skeleton. Always the skeletons. They give me a shudder."

The Tiger got off one of his best "notes" of the day at the Armour plant, through which he was conducted by Laurence Armour.

Standing in the slaughter room where steers were being slain one after another and put on rollers to convey them to the waiting line of dressers, he quoted: "I've got a little list."

"They never will be missed."

"We'll put them on the rollers and send through the abattoir," he added.

Coming to a huge dray of pig carcasses he asked what they were used for and received the reply: "To eat."

"For dear people, I suppose," he commented.

The following revision of Clemenceau's itinerary was announced today, the changes being made so he could return here December 11 to address a convention of farmers.

Leave Chicago at 10 o'clock tomorrow.

IT'S EASY TO GO HOME—BY TELEPHONE

Thanksgiving Day

Give the Folks the Joyous Surprise of a Personal Greeting by Telephone and thus Prove that You Are with Them, in more than Spirit, in properly observing the day.

YOU CAN BE THERE IN MINUTES AND THE COST WILL BE SMALL

THE SOUTHERN NEW ENGLAND TELEPHONE COMPANY

Thursday morning, arriving at Springfield, Ill., about 3 to lay a wreath on Lincoln's tomb.

Leave Springfield late in the evening, arriving at St. Louis at eight a. m. Friday.

Leave St. Louis Saturday evening, arriving at Baltimore at 8 a. m. Monday, leaving Baltimore Monday evening for Washington.

Leave Washington for Philadelphia, evening of December 8.

Leave Philadelphia for Chicago, the night of December 9.

The former war veteran, who delivered the fourth of a series of addresses here yesterday, spent today relaxing and seeing the sights. He leaves at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning for Springfield, Ill., where he will visit the tomb of Abraham Lincoln, and deliver a short eulogistic address. From there he will go to St. Louis, arriving Friday morning, for the fifth formal address of his series.

The Tiger's program for the day, worked out by himself, started with a visit to one of Chicago's biggest abattoirs and packing plants, Armour's and ended with a visit to the Auditorium, where as the guest of Mrs. Potter Palmer, his Chicago hostess, he heard Rimsky Korsakoff's fantasy "Siegfried's March."

"Snow Maiden," sung in French. He received an ovation when he appeared in the Potter Palmer box, which was draped with the French tri-color and the Stars and Stripes. It was a veritable spree for the Tiger, who usually retires at night.

After the first act, Edmond Coteau, French basso, sang the Marseillaise and Cyrena Van Gordon, the Star Spangled Banner.

Between abattoir and opera, Clemenceau sandwiched visits to the Chicago Art institute, and Anderson Galleries, and the Marshall Field Museum of Natural History.

Before reaching his institute, he proved his knowledge of art by picking out the prize Corot of the collection and heading straight for it, standing for several minutes in silent admiration.

Before reaching his institute, he proved his knowledge of art by picking out the prize Corot of the collection and heading straight for it, standing for several minutes in silent admiration.

The exhibit before which he stopped was a small statue of the Buddha.

"Poor Buddha," he exclaimed. "He did not tell the people he was a god. He only said he was a man. But when he died they insisted on making a god out of him."

A portrait of Edmond Manet, French artist, next attracted him.

"Isn't that just like him," he commented, "know him well. There was a man of wit. He is so real I can almost see him before me."

At the Anderson Galleries he stood long before Fromentier's painting of Arab valery.

"Ah, these are the Turks," he said. The Field Museum of two mounted, fighting elephants, elicited this: "When I was in Africa there was a troop—at least 45 of them—that looked me in the face just like that."

And before the skeleton of a huge whale: "Ah, there's a skeleton. Always the skeletons. They give me a shudder."

The Tiger got off one of his best "notes" of the day at the Armour plant, through which he was conducted by Laurence Armour.

Standing in the slaughter room where steers were being slain one after another and put on rollers to convey them to the waiting line of dressers, he quoted: "I've got a little list."

"They never will be missed."

"We'll put them on the rollers and send through the abattoir," he added.

Coming to a huge dray of pig carcasses he asked what they were used for and received the reply: "To eat."

"For dear people, I suppose," he commented.

The following revision of Clemenceau's itinerary was announced today, the changes being made so he could return here December 11 to address a convention of farmers.

Leave Chicago at 10 o'clock tomorrow.

Thursday morning, arriving at Springfield, Ill., about 3 to lay a wreath on Lincoln's tomb.

Leave Springfield late in the evening, arriving at St. Louis at eight a. m. Friday.

Leave St. Louis Saturday evening, arriving at Baltimore at 8 a. m. Monday, leaving Baltimore Monday evening for Washington.

Leave Washington for Philadelphia, evening of December 8.

Leave Philadelphia for Chicago, the night of December 9.

The former war veteran, who delivered the fourth of a series of addresses here yesterday, spent today relaxing and seeing the sights. He leaves at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning for Springfield, Ill., where he will visit the tomb of Abraham Lincoln, and deliver a short eulogistic address. From there he will go to St. Louis, arriving Friday morning, for the fifth formal address of his series.

The Tiger's program for the day, worked out by himself, started with a visit to one of Chicago's biggest abattoirs and packing plants, Armour's and ended with a visit to the Auditorium, where as the guest of Mrs. Potter Palmer, his Chicago hostess, he heard Rimsky Korsakoff's fantasy "Siegfried's March."

"Snow Maiden," sung in French. He received an ovation when he